As a self-taught frontend developer with 2-3 years of hands-on project experience, I've successfully completed freelance work for a South Korean business and actively contribute to the global coding community, freeCodeCamp Seoul. Recently winning Seoul Tech Impact hackathon, I showcased my problem-solving and teamwork skills. Leveraging a marketing and sales background, I aim to transition into frontend development, bringing a global perspective and a strong passion for expanding my horizons in the tech industry.
